

We are going after the people who told the truth about your plans to bomb Al Jazeera. People are asking if your bombing of the Al Jazeera's channel in Kabul and your killing of so many newsmen was all part of that plan.

Well, don't tell them it was. I just got a call from Rupert and a dozen other station owners that backed me. Now, all my news backers want me to bomb their competitors. I guess I should start by nuking Air America and the Guardian.

Not, the Guardian. I've got a policy against allowing London to be nuked - until I'm out of office.

Mommy, we've got to do something. Daddy might bomb M-TV next. Can't you Michael Douglas him?

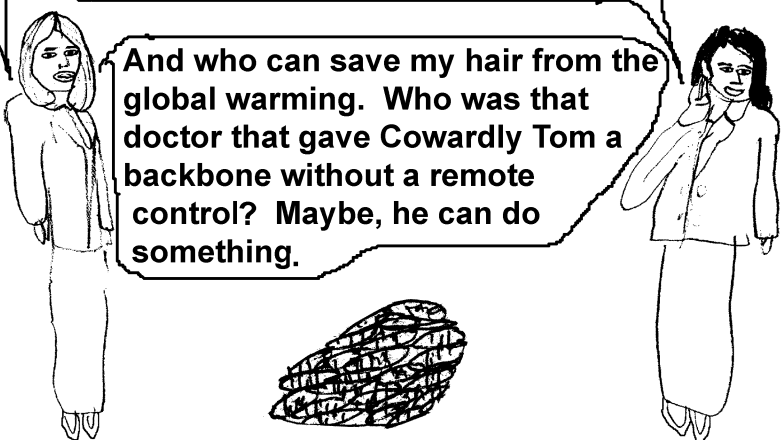

I try but he keeps stumbling out of the way.

Well, we could try pushing the triangular button at the top of these things.

The trouble is that, when we monkey with the remote controls for the Senators' mind implants, we get really inconsistent results. Russ and New York's Chuck voted against the conference bill on HR 2419 but most of the other Senators didn't. And they only inconsistently stand up against the lies and the war. We need someone who can operate a remote control.

And who can save my hair from the global warming. Who was that doctor that gave Cowardly Tom a backbone without a remote control? Maybe, he can do something.

OK, how is work going on that anti-alien missile base?

If you mean the aliens, as in "War of the Worlds" "or "Mars Attacks," we're giving lots of money away to the companies that are researching the best weapons to use on out-space lifefoms and we're going ahead with our plans to put that missile base on the moon.

Good. Because I next plan to liberate and bring freedom to the oil fields on Mars.

That may require another Operation Northwoods. We'll get working on it. What about the Sears Tower this time?
